DIRECTOR

Graciela is a psychiatrist, whose specialty is psychic trauma. She has worked in this field for 38 years and in 11 countries, providing help for victims of abuse and disasters. She works with different techniques to cope with trauma and dissociation. For several years she has worked in conjunction with the Argentinian church on the prevention of child abuse.

Additionally, she advised Cardinal Jorge Bergoglio and now advises His Holiness Pope Francisco in disaster themes and abuses. She writes plays based on her experiences in handling trauma and emotions. A cinephile at heart, Graciela grew up with a passion for filmmaking.

CHARLIE MAINARDI

DIRECTOR

Charlie began his career as a photographer in advertising when he joined his father's company, Mainardi Photographers, which is a studio that specializes in car photography. He since worked for almost every car company worldwide, including Peugeot, Hyundai, Ford, GMC, and Volkswagen, shooting in Europe, the United States, Argentina, and Africa.

Charlie went on to represent the worldwide campaign for Absolut Vodka. He also worked on the campaign for the Renault global Coca-Cola campaign. He won several awards for his photography and directorial work at local and regional festivals in Argentina, as well as Cannes, and New York.

In 2013, through the Saatchi Art Gallery, Charlie sold his "Maciel" series, which was a collection of his work developed over a year in a slum, which went on to be recognized by the Secretary of Culture of Argentina.

Recently, the David Nalbandian Foundation commissioned Charlie to photograph the problem of infant mortality to raise awareness. He also produced two feature films and directed second unit on a film about car races. His photography of people in real situations, homeless or otherwise, have been exhibited in various galleries since 2010 and belong to private collections both in Argentina and in the United States.

Raven Capital Management LLC ("Raven") is an investment adviser registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Raven team has over 115 years of combined investment experience. By targeting investments ranging between approximately $5 million and up to $50 million, Raven provides institutional investors with the unique ability to access the lower middle market through an established process dating back to the late 1990s and a highly-developed operational platform. Raven's objective is to seek superior risk-adjusted returns and generate current income for its investors through a combination of asset-based direct lending and acquisitions of cash-flowing assets across five distinct industries in which it has a high degree of expertise. By providing solution capital to asset-rich, lower-middle-market companies often challenged by traditional lenders, Raven seeks to fill a void in the current private debt market. Due to its size and highly disciplined focus, Raven maintains a competitive advantage when investing in comparison to larger, more traditional credit-focused investment managers.

Raven is led by Josh Green, a former Merrill Lynch managing director who in 1998 pioneered an asset-based principal finance investment strategy that culminated in the establishment of Merrill Lynch's Alternative Assets Group. In 2008, Mr. Green left Merrill to establish Raven, which now has a national footprint with offices in New York and Los Angeles.

PARADOX

Located in Beverly Hills, Paradox Studios, LLC is a boutique film and television production company that finances and produces independent films and specializes in international co-productions. Paradox Studios LLC, owned by Ambi Group principals Monika Bacardi and Andrea Iervolino, Swedish banker Mikael Wiren (Hoist Bank) and international independent producer Silvio Muraglia who is also the CEO of the company. Pictures produced by Paradox Studios are fully financed by the partners. As part of The Ambi Group, Paradox Studios has access to AMBI's resources in addition to its own, including the recently announced $200 Million Dollar fund launched by Ambi Group and Raven Capital Management. As part of the AMBI Group, Paradox Studios films are marketed and sold internationally by AMBI Distribution, headed by veteran sales agents Julie Sultan and Elisabeth Costa de Beauregard.

In 2013, the Paradox film Ain't Them Bodies Saints, starring Rooney Mara and Casey Affleck, debuted at Sundance to critical acclaim. In the same year, the thrillers financed and produced by Paradox Studios, Reasonable Doubt starring Samuel L. Jackson and Dominic Cooper and Reclaim starring John Cusack were both picked up and released by Lionsgate in the US. In 2014, Paradox financed and produced the romantic comedy All Roads Lead to Rome starring Sarah Jessica Parker, Raoul Bova and Claudia Cardinale. The film, shot on location throughout the scenic countryside of Tuscany and the city of Rome has been sold in every territory of the world, and will be released by Eone in the US. In 2015, Paradox Studios produced the psychological thriller Lavender starring Abbie Cornish, Dermot Mulroney, and Justin Long, which is now in post production, Netflix bought worldwide SVOD rights.
